the greening of art describes the shifts in position between art and nature which took place during the past fifty years to set out re establishing a new relationship between art and the landscape environment and attempt in various ways to re connect art with nature from the 1960s onward when artists went outdoors to explore the environment as extended space of the self via land reclamation projects and collaborations with landscape architects in redesigning whole parks to the present day with its recent development of urban gardening projects the fourth volume of the international yearbook of german idealism is devoted to the aesthetics and philosophy of art of classical german philosophy after a g baumgarten and kant aesthetics attained an independent systematic form one which remains influential to this day schelling the jena romantics and schopenhauer bestowed upon aesthetics the status of first philosophy a status that was then criticized by hegel among others this volume contains an extensive interview with arthur danto and dieter henrich about the significance of idealist aesthetics and its relation to contemporary art and aesthetic theory ten other contributions take up the themes of this discussion detailed comparative studies explore the aesthetic theories of kant fichte schiller schelling hegel and schleiermacher and mine their contemporary relevance the cult of art in nazi germany presents a new interpretation of national socialism arguing that art in the third reich was not simply an instrument of the regime but actually became a source of the racist politics upon which its ideology was founded through the myth of the aryan race a race pronounced superior because it alone creates culture nazism asserted art as the sole raison d'être of a regime defined by hitler as the dictatorship of genius michaud shows the important link between the religious nature of nazi art and the political movement revealing that in nazi germany art was considered to be less a witness of history than a force capable of producing future the actor capable of accelerating the coming of a reality immanent to art itself distinctive and unique in its approach this book opens up art education to the broader field of social enquiry into practice subjectivity and identity it draws upon important developments in contemporary philosophy and the social sciences and applies this to the professional field of art in education it opens new perspectives for teachers teacher educators and student teachers

this book explores the place of art in the modern world but instead of asking what art is it begins with the question of art's appeal in modernity why is the appellation art so desired for movies food and fashion for example why is there the assumption of esteem when someone calls themselves an artist on the other hand why is modern art so often seen as at best difficult and at worst not in fact art engaging with a broad range of theory the author draws on the thought of max weber to offer an account of art s widespread appeal in terms of its constituting a self contained value sphere of meaning which provides a feeling of tremendous salvation from the senseless routines of modern life in this way major theories on aesthetics in philosophy and sociology including those of kant hegel adorno and bourdieu are critically recast and incorporated into an overall explanation and fundamental questions concerning the relation of art to politics and ethics are given innovative answers a fresh examination of the development of the aesthetic sphere that shows how art came to be regarded as one of the last bastions of freedom and the highest human achievement and also how it became increasingly isolated from the rest of society the appeal of art in modernity will appeal to scholars of philosophy social theory and sociology with interests in art modernity and weber
